

JOURNALS FROM UT PRESS

US Latina & Latino Oral History Journal

The US Latina & Latino Oral History Journal is a research publication created to mine, showcase, and promote the rich field of oral history as it relates specifically to the US Latina and Latino experience. Manuscripts are blind peer-reviewed and represent best practices of oral history and the highest research standards. The University of Texas Press publishes the journal for UT-Austin's Center for Mexican American Studies (CMAS) with support by the Voces Oral History Project at the university's School of Journalism. Maggie Rivas-Rodriguez, UT professor of journalism, is the journal's founding editor.

Studies in Latin American Popular Culture

Studies in Latin American Popular Culture, an annual interdisciplinary journal, publishes articles, review essays, and interviews on diverse aspects of popular culture in Latin America. Since its inception in 1982, the journal has defined popular culture broadly as "some aspect of culture which is accepted by or consumed by significant numbers of people." This definition has had one caveat: it does not normally include what is frequently called folk culture or folklore. Within these parameters, submissions are welcome on any aspect of the production, circulation, and consumption of cultural goods in Latin America from any disciplinary perspective.

The Nature of the PT Governments: A Variety of Neoliberalism? Part 1, January 2020

Latin American Perspectives is a multidisciplinary journal that welcomes a variety of theoretical and political perspectives to analyze capitalism, imperialism, and socialism in the Americas and strategies to transform the region's sociopolitical structures. Most issues focus on a single problem, nation, or region, providing an in-depth analysis from scholars and participants in social change.

"Latin American Perspectives is the most important resource available providing in-depth progressive analyses of developments in Latin America. It is the unmissable journal!"

— Alfredo Saad Filho, SOAS, University of London
